PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

Hurricane Sandy taught us all a valuable lesson: Take nothing for granted. From Long Island to Brooklyn and beyond, each of us encountered disaster in all its forms, from the catastrophe of power outages and flooding to the chaos of widespread shortages. We lost entire days and nights, homes and treasured valuables, but never faith.

We frequently reference the spirit of St. Joseph's College, our generosity, our kindness and consideration. We often cite our College motto, Esse non videri — "To be, not to seem." But until those words find a cause, they are only words.

Meeting this disaster head on, St. Joseph's responded quickly. Our 30th Annual Scholarship Gala, scheduled to take place just days after Hurricane Sandy, was canceled. The honorees, the Honorable Joan B. Carey '61 and Monsignor David L. Cassato, made a tremendous gesture by leading the way in donations to the newly established Hurricane Sandy Student Relief Fund — a fund the College created to help those current students hit worst by the storm.

In the weeks that followed, the Long Island Campus' John A. Danzi Athletic Center was transformed into an emergency shelter, and our Office of Institutional Advancement became home to our donation center. And all the members of the St. Joseph's College family showed us just what our motto and decades of tradition really meant. On behalf of all those students and community members who received your generosity, your kindness and your consideration: Thank you.

As SJC moves forward and picks up the pieces Sandy left behind, we also find many reasons to rejoice and celebrate. As our centennial quickly approaches, our annual events adopt an additional significance: commemorating 100 years of success while focusing on the growing strength of our future. The Century Fund celebrates the College's many decades of honor and tradition, and we invite you to join us in our journey toward 2016.

With another school year well under way, the College is steadily improving its curriculum and facilities, and evolving to meet the needs of our diverse student body. We added more academic programs, including a B.A. in Journalism and New Media Studies, and an impressive new M.F.A. in Creative Writing led by some of the most innovative authors in the region. We are excited about the future growth potential of our programs and the College as a whole.

Last year, we opened a new state-of-the-art, 24.8-acre outdoor athletic complex at our Long Island Campus, complete with a 400-meter track, baseball and softball fields, a combined soccer/lacrosse field and tennis courts, among many other amenities. On the Brooklyn Campus, construction began on our 43,623-square-foot athletic facility, which should be completed during the 2013-2014 school year.

Thank you for all your continued interest in and support of St. Joseph's College. I thank you for all your faith and friendship. May you have a successful year, and may God bless you.

Sincerely,

Sister Elizabeth A. Hill, CSJ

Brooklyn Campus • Class of 2013
Doris Oshinski Powers '53 Scholarship

Degree: B.S. in Biology

In preparation for her career as a veterinarian, Adriana currently volunteers for a nonprofit organization called Volunteers for Wildlife. "This amazing organization is run by a group of very devoted volunteers that rehabilitate a lot of the wildlife found around Long Island," she explains. "The home base in Locust Valley houses a rehabilitation clinic and is also home to a few owls, falcons, opossums and squirrels that can no longer fend for themselves in the wild. I am very excited to be part of the team." As a member of the Honors Program, Adriana also had the privilege of taking a trip to France with her fellow students. Partially funded by St. Joseph's Norma Mallia Cultural Fund, the trip is a once-in-a-lifetime experience for many students who, like Adriana, might otherwise not have the opportunity to travel overseas.

"Being able to attend SJC has changed my life," she says. "I have always been so grateful for receiving the Doris Oshinski Powers Scholarship. It continues to remind me that someone has faith in my abilities and in my future. It continues to symbolize that I have all the potential to achieve what I dream and that nothing is too hard to attain with effort and hard, honest work. Finally, it continues to inspire me to put my best foot forward and reach above the limit I set for myself so that I can make the Powers family, my parents, and myself proud."

He was also extremely helpful, especially when it came to adjusting to college life. He taught us that we all have the same anxieties and worries, and we can work together to help each other." In addition to her course work, Theresa works part-time as a waitress and also as a children's swim instructor.

"I would create this club because art is my area of concentration," she says, "and I believe it is really important for children to be given the opportunity to be creative and explore art on many different levels."

Even though she is busy with her course work, Tanya is an active member of the parent-teacher organization, and often volunteers at her children's schools and at book fairs, dances and blood drives in her community.

Without the financial assistance she received from the Laura Heiden Memorial Scholarship, Tanya would have found it difficult to continue her bachelor's degree at St. Joseph's. Tanya says, "This scholarship has had a huge impact on me and my family, and, thanks to the financial security it provides, I will be able to realize my educational goals. Without it, I would not have been able to attend SJC." She adds, "I would like to thank Mr. Heiden a million times over. THE ART OF GIVING

A 1941 Graduate's Generous Donation to the Long Island Campus Paves the Way for the Muriel & Virginia Pless Center for Performing Arts

by David Henne • dhenne@sjcny.edu

REVISITING A LIFETIME

Reacquaintance with an old friend is one of life's richest blessings. There's never a lack of laughter or conversation to be had, and a shared memory yields double the sentiment.

St. Joseph's College was fortunate to reacquaint itself with one of our exceptional graduates in late autumn of 2011. Class of 1941 alumna Muriel Pless, having just turned 92 years young, was kind enough to let us into her home, and generous enough to let us leave with a priceless artifact: her personal collection of Madonna statues, accumulated during her travels around the world with her late sister, Virginia.

This year, Muriel Pless' relationship with her alma mater grew even stronger. Ms. Pless generously made an additional endowment toward St. Joseph's Long Island Campus, one which will be used to establish the Muriel and Virginia Pless Center for Performing Arts. To those of us lucky enough to meet Muriel, her generosity comes as no surprise.

What follows here is an article that originally appeared in St. Joseph's College Magazine after our initial meeting with Ms. Pless in 2011, when she invited us over for apple juice and donuts, and detained us willingly for hours after our interview was over, discussing politics and fashion, and offering personal advice on landscaping.

With nearly a century of alumnae proudly bearing the mantle of bold women of stature, we are constantly amazed by our earliest graduates of what was once St. Joseph's College for Women. We are thankful for so many of those graduates who have been so frequently generous, but equally valuable is the time spent in their presence. The gifts of their wit and vibrant spirit are on par with any treasure.

Upon entering her home, it's immediately apparent that Muriel Pless '41 is not a typical hostess peddling tea and biscotti. Her foyer, a globally inspired tableau, is indicative of its owner: a sharp-witted woman with a wealth of knowledge from across the globe.

Most impressive of all, at 92 years of age, Ms. Pless stands and speaks with the spirited voice of a young woman starting her life and eager to see it all.

"A Latin teacher once told me a brilliant quote about seeing the world: Travel before the mountains get too high, the foods get too spicy and the beds get too hard," she explains as she leads the way to one of her most personal and prized possessions — a collection of Madonna statues, each obtained during her visits to Europe, Asia and beyond.

The pieces, decades old and in extraordinarily impressive condition, stand pristine and proud against the hallway walls, as if tangible extensions of Ms. Pless' own vitality.

"Spain, Germany, China, Japan ..." Ms. Pless moves a fixed hand patiently across the face of her collection. She supplements the name of each country with a story of adventure at each destination with her late sister, Virginia. Her constant cohort, Virginia accompanied Muriel as the two acquired the precious Madonna keepsakes — not only souvenirs, but also symbols of something much more precious.

"In 1968, my mother left us, and we were desolate, of course," Ms. Pless recalls. "And we said, 'at least she's with the Virgin Mary, and she'll be safe up there.' And the first trip we took was to Spain, to kind of get ourselves used to life without her. The first statue that I saw was the Crying Madonna — La Macarena."

The piece is a radiant color, handcrafted and extremely delicate. She removes it from the wall and strokes it with deserved care. "We loved it, and we always had this Madonna to remember. And of course that made us divinely happy because it also personified our love for our own mother."

As she discusses her life, Ms. Pless tells, with instant recall and clarity, anecdote after heartwarming anecdote about the foreign strangers and instant friends made along her journeys.

"You must travel, see the world while you're young," her eyes light up when she speaks these words.

"If you want something that typifies the country, then you have to do a little searching, which we did. Even if you weren't a collector, there's something about traveling that says, 'Take me home.' And in fact, if you look around my house, you can see them all."

Ms. Pless' home is indeed painted with the brushstrokes of a thousand colorful stories, a thousand journeys and a thousand keepsakes. Mementos that most will never get to see, unless one visits the Long Island Campus of St. Joseph's College.

Ms. Pless has insisted on donating the Madonna collection to the College after her passing. A gesture that, when witnessing her affinity for the collection, is almost too much to accept.

> "Travel before the mountains get too high, the foods get too spicy and the beds get too hard."

After mulling over the question of why St. Joseph's should deserve such an intimate and priceless artistic collection, Ms. Pless almost looks baffled. "Where better than St. Joe's, where it all started? I knew if the collection were to be maintained, it would be at St. Joseph's. I always loved my College."

Recalling her collegiate years, Ms. Pless tells of the May Devotions, the classmates she loved so dearly and the nuns, especially S. Vincent Thérèse Tuohy, C.S.J., Ph.D., who shaped her into the woman she is today.

"I loved everything about it," she says.

Upon a single glance of the treasures she will leave to the College, it's clear that Ms. Pless not only loves St. Joseph's — she holds the institution as close to her heart as anyone possibly could. SJC President S. Elizabeth A. Hill, C.S.J., J.D., knows the sentiment is mutual.

"Muriel is a great friend of St. Joseph's and we look forward to many more years of good times and fascinating conversations," S. Elizabeth said. "We are so grateful to Muriel for sharing her beautiful collection of Madonnas with us. Each one is unique and they are very special because they are mementos of the many trips she enjoyed with her sister, Virginia.

"We are honored that we will one day receive them and delighted that they will become a treasured part of the College's history."

Several months ago, the fall 2012 edition of SJCNY: St. Joseph's College Magazine brought you firsthand accounts of relief efforts in Joplin, Mo., in the wake of May 2011's EF5 tornado. The article shared the story of our students as they helped a town rebuild in the face of widespread devastation. Descriptions of that devastation seemed worlds away: Trees and telephone poles uprooted. Cars crushed. Entire neighborhoods turned to rubble.

On October 29, Hurricane Sandy brought us much closer to Joplin than we could have ever imagined. In a state that rarely sees a natural disaster, particularly one comparable to a historically destructive tornado, New York suddenly became the focal point of 70+ mph gusts, flooding and FEMA response. When identifying photos of the aftermath, Downtown Joplin and Breezy Point are almost indistinguishable.

Whether in Brooklyn, Long Island or beyond, many members of the SJC community spent their first post-Sandy days in the dark, and the following week with barely enough resources to find a way through it. But two weeks of inconvenience is nothing when stacked against the months or years it will require some of us to rebuild. As we begin 2013, our College's Hurricane Sandy recovery efforts are ongoing. As this feature attests, we are continuing to lend our thanks to our generous community members, and our support to those who need it most.

Before Hurricane Sandy made landfall near Atlantic City, no measurement was more significant than the storm's diameter — spanning 1,100 miles, Sandy would become the largest Atlantic hurricane on record. True to the St. Joseph's College mindset of "two campuses, one College," the storm made no distinction between Brooklyn and Patchogue in regard to the immensity of its devastation.

Several days later, as classes on both campuses resumed, students, faculty and staff were greeted with an entirely new landscape. Teachers and administrators understood the scope of Sandy's devastation; most of their students and workers had no way to navigate through downed trees, flooded streets and knocked-out street lights.

SJC administrators returning to their offices on the morning of November 5 found a number of decisions awaiting them. Immediately after Sandy's full impact was felt, the choice was made to cancel the College's 30th annual Scholarship Gala — originally planned for November 8 — for the first time in the event's history.

Quickly following that first determination was a second: to create the SJC Hurricane Sandy Student Relief Fund. Bolstered by initial donations from the 2012 Scholarship Gala's would-be honorees, the Honorable Joan B. Carey '61 and Monsignor David L. Cassato, the Fund took immediate shape.

Through a series of social media updates and email correspondences, the same methods of communication that helped quickly get the word out about the impending storm and campus closings, SJC President S. Elizabeth A. Hill, C.S.J., entreated the St. Joseph's family to join together to help those in need through the newly created Student Relief Fund.

With several more messages from Associate Vice President for Alumni Relations and Stewardship Mary Jo Burke Chiara '69, Director of Alumni Relations Paige Napoli Carbone '02, and Vice President for Institutional Advancement Nancy Connors, word of the Fund spread rapidly through our alumni base of more than 32,000.

The homepage of www.sjcny.edu and giving.sjcny.edu were even transformed to reflect the birth of the Student Relief Fund and its goal.

Seeking to ensure that no student affected by the storm would be forced to forego his or her education, the Student Relief Fund was built with the sole purpose of keeping current SJC students in school. It accomplished that mission by assisting those students hit worst by providing tuition assistance and other sources of financial relief. And it did it entirely through donor support.

The Collection Relief Center at the Office of Institutional Advancement in Patchogue.

Answering the call to action was St. Joseph's College's faculty and staff, raising more than $25,000 in less than a month. One anonymous faculty member pledged $10,000 to match colleagues' donations. SJC alumni and friends pitched in checks and online donations by the hundreds to bring the Hurricane Relief Fund's grand total to approximately $250,000 by late November.

The quick turnaround was nothing short of amazing — such a massive amount of donations in such a minimal amount of time was unprecedented — but came as no surprise. To many donors who articulated just why they gave, and to those whose quotes are included here, the decision was a simple one.

With the Hurricane Sandy Student Relief Fund in place, students began filing applications to be considered for financial assistance. Submitted forms included heartbreaking accounts of the storm's damage to family homes, cars and irreplaceable possessions. Some applications included photos of the devastation — wreckage and debris among the bleak backdrop of the disaster. A newly formed committee was brought together to review the applications and make decisions to allocate the funds to those who were in the most dire need.

We may find ourselves distanced by several months from Sandy, but still we are collecting donations toward the Student Relief Fund, and encourage those who are able to consider making a donation. Though we've already made an impact on many students, the efforts are ongoing, and we seek to continue to help those who need it. You can donate online now at alumni.sjcny.edu/givenow.

While the Student Relief Fund served as a monetary homebase for those who needed financial assistance, several sites on our campuses would become tangible extensions of our efforts – serving those who needed physical assistance, and needed it quickly.

In the days following Sandy, school districts across New York lent their gymnasiums and auditoriums to house displaced members of the community, but were given no choice but to redistribute these community members once classes resumed. So it was that the John A. Danzi Athletic Center became an emergency home for those displaced in the weeks following the storm. This Humanitarian Relief Project, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, brought together resources and volunteers to serve hundreds who were in desperate need of food, water and, most of all, shelter.

Meanwhile, the Brooklyn Campus teamed up with the Church of St. Luke and St. Matthew on Clinton Avenue to collect and deliver much-needed items. Coordinating with Occupy Sandy Recovery (interoccupy.net/occupysandy), the site became a major distribution center for New York City, coordinating to recovery sites across the boroughs.

To further assist the effort, the College established Collection Relief Centers at the Office of Institutional Advancement in Downtown Patchogue and at the Tuohy Hall Auditorium in Brooklyn. Within hours of publicizing the centers, donations came pouring in. Hundreds of items, from canned food, clothes, blankets, sanitary products and coats piled against the doors. St. Joseph's College, from our assisted students to those affected worse, had once again come together for the cause.

In the midst of a publication showcasing those thousands who have made a difference in the lives of our students, we applaud those who

"Although it was somewhat inconvenient losing power for four days, it was nothing compared to the destruction and devastation that others suffered as a result of Hurricane Sandy. I have come to know many students and their families over the past decade through the admissions process, and knowing how much many of them have suffered financially and emotionally as a result of the storm, I thought about how I could assist. And so, it is my hope that my donation to the Student Relief Fund would bring some help to those less fortunate than I."

— THERESA LaROCCA MEYER
VICE PRESIDENT FOR ENROLLMENT MANAGEMENT

"In my ten years at SJC, I have seen over and over again the generous spirit of our community — students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends. I have never seen people mobilize this quickly to help others. I feel blessed to be part of this remarkable effort."

— NANCY CONNORS

gave so much so quickly and without question. This is not a massive community, but it has a massive heart. We pray that we do not need to build such a fund in the near future, or to erect such emergency assistive measures, but what a comfort it is for this community to know that our SJC family is there should we need it.

St. Joseph's College was excited to honor Judge Joan Carey '61 and Monsignor David L. Cassato at our 30th Annual Scholarship Gala. Hurricane Sandy had other plans. However, as our honorees know, turbulent situations give way to unforeseen opportunities. Judge Carey and Monsignor Cassato led the way in donations toward our Hurricane Sandy Student Relief Fund. Their impact on their communities, much like their impact on ours, has been extraordinary and nothing short of inspirational. We are grateful for their dedication to the mission of St. Joseph's and we consider both to be outstanding examples for our students to emulate.

A 1961 graduate of St. Joseph's College, the Honorable Joan Carey earned a Bachelor of Laws from New York Law School in 1966. She was awarded an Honorary Juris Doctorate from St. Joseph's in 2002.

Judge Carey is an untiring lecturer on a wide variety of subjects, an ardent advocate for the courts of this state and a strong voice for reform of the laws governing domestic violence. She served as deputy chief administrative judge for New York City Courts from 1996 until her retirement in 2009, addressing the daily challenges of an urban court serving a population of over 8 million with more than 500 judges and nearly 8,000 non-judicial employees.

Judge Carey began her long and prestigious career in 1968 as an assistant district attorney in Queens. She later served as deputy chief of the Homicide Investigations Bureau, chief of the Supreme Court Trial Bureau and attorney-in-charge of the Rackets and Investigations Bureau. After leaving the district attorney's office, Judge Carey was appointed special attorney general in charge of the boroughs of Brooklyn and Staten Island, and supervised the investigation and prosecution of cases involving corruption in the criminal justice system.

In 1993, Judge Carey was named administrative judge of the Supreme Court Criminal Term in Manhattan, the largest criminal branch of the New York State Supreme Court. She held that position for nearly two years before being chosen to take over the leadership of the New York City Criminal Court, thought by many to be the busiest criminal court in the world.

Monsignor David L. Cassato was born in Brooklyn in 1947. At a very young age, he became convinced that he would devote his life to God and God's people. After graduating high school, Monsignor Cassato attended Cathedral College of the Immaculate Conception and earned a B.A. in Philosophy. He then went on to Our Lady of the Angels Seminary and earned his Master of Divinity degree.

In 1972, Monsignor Cassato was ordained a priest and appointed to St. Rita's in Long Island City where, as assistant pastor, he had an active part in the development of many parish programs. He served for 13 years in this capacity before becoming administrator of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in Williamsburg/Greenpoint. Less than a year later, Bishop Francis J. Mugavero asked then-Father Cassato to become the next pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel.

During his 13 years at St. Rita's, Monsignor Cassato developed a diversified youth program, a drop-in center for teenagers, a summer camp program for children and a retreat program for young adults.

In 2001 Monsignor Cassato was appointed a chaplain of the New York City Police Department, and was also assigned as pastor to the parish of St. Athanasius in Bensonhurst Brooklyn. In May 2002, Monsignor Cassato earned a Master of Science in Education with a focus on administration and supervision from Mercy College.

He succeeded in his original challenge, namely "to put an upward tone to the parish, to restore a sense of happiness, joy and enthusiasm for the church and the faith." In 1988, Bishop Mugavero notified Father Cassato that Pope John Paul II had granted him the title of Honorary Prelate, or monsignor.

"Seeing the shocking devastation caused by Hurricane Sandy and the heartwarming responses of the local community reaching out to help one another, I felt compelled to play a part in the relief efforts. In addition, I was very impressed with the extraordinary and generous efforts St. Joseph's College was making to help those in dire need. As a member of the SJC community for nearly 32 years, I have never been more proud to be associated with St. Joseph's."

— DAVID SEPPALA-HOLTZMAN, PH.D.
CHAIR, DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS AND COMPUTER SCIENCE

"We gave to the Student Relief Fund because we witnessed, first hand, some of the most heavily affected areas and felt obligated to do something. Luckily, we were not affected to any large degree."

— DANIEL O'ROURKE
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR OF CLIENT SERVICES, IT SERVICES

ST. JOSEPH'S SOCIETY

The St. Joseph's College Society was created to honor those generous donors who consistently contribute to the College. The constant support of its members is a tangible expression of their dedication to the intellectual and spiritual values that are at the core of a St. Joseph's College education. Their loyalty enables us to embrace the future with commitment and hope.

Why I Give

"Why do I give? I give to St. Joseph's College because I believe in its mission and in the education it provides for our students. In recent years, I've given more substantially to the Taylor Fund at SJC because I can see the immediate effect it has – that students who would not have been able to afford to come here get to attend because of grants from that fund. We have to put our money where our mouths are. If we believe in something, we must support it."

Why I Give

"I give because I've seen over the years how many students St. Joseph's has helped to reach their goals. I've been very happy to be part of the process as a teacher, and I'm glad I can now help out with a gift."

Why I Give

Why I Give

"During the many years as a member of the College community, I have witnessed the College living through its motto, Esse non videri. So it is important to me to give back to the College in appreciation."
